

Mr. Tough Talk

He knows how to lead after a terrorist attack. But the key is preventing one in the first place. Does Giuliani really have what it takes?

BY AMANDA RIPLEY

'We haven't been attacked because we've been strong, because we've been on offense.'

—GIULIANI, MAY 20, 2007

But

retired Lieut. General William Odom of the conservative Hudson Institute counters, 'We're fighting them over there, and the consequence has been that we have essentially revived al-Qaeda.'
