Ice fever always grips the Dutch nation during the colder months, and the travellers on our cover journeyed to Het Twiske, just north of Amsterdam, to soak up this very special atmosphere. Unfortunately for our model, though, she didn't actually get to play with penguins in Antarctica or see the pyramids at Giza, as all the other shots were faked by us. But we hope they inspire you to take a real trip and join us as we find out the secrets behind wanderlust, go sailing in Eritrea, get some top tips on creating the perfect holiday snaps and check out the best destinations to suit your personality.
